F060827 People v. Osuna

On September 13, 2010, this court advised appellant it was considering dismissing his appeal because the trial court denied his request for a certificate of probable cause. This court directed appellant to file an informal letter brief explaining why the matter should not be dismissed and advised him that his failure to respond within 20 days would be deemed an abandonment of the appeal. Not having received a response from appellant, the action is dismissed as abandoned.
